

CLUB NEEDED HERE, SAYS JUDGE HARRIS

Fulton Jurist Is Head of New Organization in His Own Town.

IT MUST BE MORAL

Necessity for Enforcement of Law Emphasized in Model Constitution.

What Judge Harris Says.

Columbia should have a fine Country Club with 100 to 150 members.

Conditions in Columbia are ideal for a strong organization.

Put the club within walking distance.

I hope that the people will soon enjoy themselves as the people of Fulton are now doing.

David H. Harris, judge of the Circuit Court, president of the new Fulton Country Club, considers conditions in Columbia ideal for the organization of a strong country club. In his office in the courthouse, after the adjournment of court Friday, Judge Harris expressed himself as enthusiastic over the idea and said that he was eager to see the citizens of Columbia take a step in this line, just as the people of Fulton have done.

There is no reason in the world why Columbia should not have a fine country club with from 100 to 150 active members," said Mr. Harris. "We received the charter for our new club in Fulton only last Saturday, and already we have had to change our membership limit from sixty to eighty members. If Fulton, with only 6,000 inhabitants can start off that well, what ought not Columbia be able to do?"

Rules of the Fulton Club.

Certain rules of conduct are necessary if a country club is to thrive in a small city, according to Judge Harris, and these have been incorporated in the constitution of the Fulton club. First among these is the forbidding of the use of intoxicants, or gambling on the club property. Another rule adopted by the Fulton club, which has drawn forth much favorable criticism is that the property shall remain closed to all members until 1 o'clock each Sunday afternoon, in order to not interfere with the morning worship at the churches.

"Unless a country club in a city the size of Columbia or Fulton is conducted along strictly moral lines, public decency would and should see that it is soon put out of existence," said Mr. Harris. "It should be the aim of the organization to have as members those citizens whose conduct will help to make the club a wholesome place to spend one's idle hours."

"Above all things, make the club a walking proposition. I think it would be a bad mistake to place a country club in a small city so far away that automobiles or any kind of vehicle would be necessary. The club should be located within, or as near the city limits as possible, so that members not having means of conveyance would not be prevented from dropping in as often as they feel like doing so. The Fulton club grounds are within the city limits, and easily reached on foot from any part of the city."

Unselfishness a Keynote.

"The organizers of the proposed Columbia Country Club cannot be too careful about being clannish or exclusive in their selection of members," continued Judge Harris. "Unselfishness is the keynote to a successful club, and it cannot be popular otherwise. A clean, good class of citizens should be sought after. Of course a membership limit must be set, from the standpoint of accommodation, but that is a matter to be decided by the organizers. We provided for an amendment to our membership limit, and were not long in taking advantage of it."

Judge Harris is one of ten Fulton citizens who invested $400 each in the forty-acre tract which has become the home of the Fulton club. The tract, which includes a handsome brick house, cost $10,000. The property has been turned over to the club on the proposition that they pay the interest on the unpaid balance of $6,000. Five years time is given the club to buy the property at cost. The ten owners, all of whom are members of the club, have, in other words, turned over their investment to the organization without even asking for the interest due them for the money

The Dues Paid in Fulton.

"Of course it is not necessary for the citizens of Columbia to follow our plan," continued Mr. Harris. The plan, adopted by the Jefferson City club, of paying down $10,000 and borrowing the rest can be followed. I would suggest that the organizers write to the clubs of Sedalia, Hannibal, Springfield or Jefferson City and find out the methods they used. All these cities have flourishing clubs of just the type and size Columbia should have."

Each member of the Fulton club pays a $50 entrance fee, which will be used toward improving the property and paying off the indebtedness. Improvements will include a golf course, several tennis courts, and the remodeling of the building. In addition to the entrance fee, members of the club will pay annual dues ranging from $24 for married men who are regular members, to $5 for ministers living in Callaway county.

The membership is divided into four divisions: Regular, associate, junior and honorary. Regular members are all men and women more than 18 years old who pay annual dues of $24, entitling them to a vote on all matters brought up before the club. Associate members are the wives of the regular men members, young men and women between 18 and 20 years old who are children of regular members, men and women more than 18 years old living more than six miles from the club, and ministers and their wives. Junior members are boys and girls between 15 and 18 years old who are the children of regular members. Honorary members are persons outside Callaway County whom the regular members see fit to elect.

The Fulton Constitution.

Annual fees for associate members are $5 for ministers and children of regular members over 18 years old, and $10 for unmarried women over 18 years old and persons living more than six miles from the club grounds. The wives of regular members, and junior and honorary members pay no fees.

The constitution of the Fulton club provides for a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and five directors, to be elected by the club. The four officers and five directors constitute a board of governors having executive control of the organization. Four standing committees are provided for: the house committee, grounds committee, greens committee, and games and sports committee.

The annual business meeting of the organization will be held the first Tuesday in March. Only regular members, limited now to eighty, can vote on club transactions. The officers and directors of the Fulton Country Club are: President, Judge David H. Harris; vice-president, R. A. Moore; secretary, W. P. Palmer; treasurer, W. C. Harris; directors, W. E. Jameson, M. F. Bell, E. C. Henderson, N. T. Cave, W. B. Harris.

Have Started a Golf Course.

The work of laying out the golf course for the club has already been started under the supervision of one of the leading landscape gardeners of St. Louis. "No definite date has been set as yet for our formal opening," said Judge Harris. "We don't intend to wait long before we start to enjoy all the advantages of our new organization promises to give us. I hope the people of Columbia will soon be able to enjoy themselves the same way. If what we are doing will in any way help you to get things started, come to Fulton and look our place over."

Home Economics Club Opens.

The Home Economics Club held the first of its regular monthly meeting in the Schweitzer Hall Auditorium last week. Plans were made for co-operating with the Civic League in the Child Welfare movement. One hundred girls attended.

LOOKS FOR SUFFRAGE BY ACT OF CONGRESS

Mrs. Walter McNab Miller Forsees Federal Amendment in Next Session.

WILL HAVE PAGEANT

University League Will Celebrate October 21 With Play At the Columns.

"Suffrage for women will be established in the coming session of Congress through a federal amendment," declared Mrs. Walter McNab Miller at an open air meeting held on the courthouse lawn yesterday afternoon. About one hundred persons attended. Several of them were men who assembled at the street corner to hear the speeches. Not one dissenting voice was heard when a resolution committing the assembly to support of measures and candidates favoring equal suffrage was read by Mrs. Luella St. Clair-Moss.

Yesterday was the first Federal Amendment Day declared by the national council to promote public education. Mrs. W. E. Harshe, president of the Boone County Suffrage League, spoke of the feeling toward suffrage in states where the franchise has been granted. She introduced Mrs. Miller, recently elected first-vice-president of the National Equal Suffrage Association.

Mrs. Moss was the final speaker. She emphasized what she called the unreasonable attitude of the non-suffrage advocates and read the resolution adopted by the meeting.

Mrs. Miller announced a pageant to be given by the suffrage league of the University at the Columns, October 21, which is the second Federal Amendment Day.

NO VERDICT IN BRADFORD CASE

Jury to Consider Whisky Prescription Charges Again Monday.

Dr. George A. Bradford was tried in the Circuit Court yesterday morning on a charge of writing prescriptions for whisky for other than medicinal purposes. The charges were read by the Young Peoples' Branch of the W. T. C. U. The jury was unable to render a verdict last night, and was excused until Monday morning.

According to the testimony of D. B. Curtis, a junior in the College of Arts and Science and the principal witness for the state, Doctor Bradford wrote a prescription for a quart of whisky for him on each of four visits he made to the office. He charges that the Doctor knew that it was not to be used as a medicine.

Witnesses for defense said that they were present the first time that Mr. Curtis had called on Doctor Bradford and that he had come into the office acting as if he was in great pain. They said that he had told the Doctor that he had rheumatism and that he wanted some whisky for it, and that Doctor Bradford wrote the prescription with this understanding after he had made an examination.

Doctors Norris and Thornton said that whisky and alcohol is sometimes used for rheumatism.

The defense admitted that Doctor Bradford had written the prescriptions, but based their plea for acquittal upon the assumption that their client had issued the prescriptions believing that the whisky was to be used as a medicine. They also asserted that it was unreasonable to presume that Doctor Bradford would violate the law as charged for 50 cents.

WORKS 5 YEARS FOR CAPITOL

Mr. Stephens Discusses Completion of New Building in Jefferson City.

Five years ago last Friday E. W. Stephens was appointed chairman of the State Capitol Commission.

"I must evade a direct answer as to the exact time the new building will be fully and finally completed," said Mr. Stephens yesterday. "But we will put it this way. The building will be entirely finished and ready for the furnishings when the latter are there for installation. I would estimate that it would require a year for the state to have its furnishings made for installation."

Prof. Major to St. Louis.

Prof. H. F. Major of the landscape gardening department left yesterday morning for St. Louis to attend an exhibition of landscape design held at Shaw's Gardens. He will also attend a meeting of the National Park Superintendents' Association.

Gallatin is outside of Columbia's trade territory, but Columbians are "good sports" and will refund the fares from Gallatin along with McBaine, Ashland, Stephens Store or Centralia. Trade Week will last until midnight next Saturday.

This is the first time in the history of the European war that a fighting submarine has journeyed to America. Although the Tigers in their barnstorming affair with the Central collegians on Rollins Field were extremely successful in their 40 to 0 score, the real importance of yesterday's battle is with the other Valley teams, most of whom were engaged in major games.

Saturday the Tigers meet the Washington University Pikers in Columbia, and the 13 to 0 score of the Mound City eleven against Rose Poly, a team to be classed along with the Missouri college elevens, indicates that Coach Bill Edmunds' men are not going any too well. Word from the Piker camp is that St. Louisans showed poorly in yesterday's game, which like that of the Tigers, was their first test against outside strength.

Kansas Loses 30 to 0.

At Urbana the Kansas Jayhawkers were trounced in a 30 to 0 game with Zupp's Illinois, which carries out predictions following the Kansas' poor showing against the Emporia Normals last week. Nebraska's score against Drake shows that the Cornhuskers have a real team despite the loss of stars and Coach "Jumbo" Steinhilber. Ames, from her 19 to 0 score against Highland Park a week time, will have difficult hoing in the well-worn row next Saturday, against the Jayhawkers from over the Western border, while the Tigers are battling with the Pikers. The following Saturday Ames meets Missouri in Columbia, furnishing early season gossip for the "dopers."

The remaining Conference eleven, the Kansas Aggies, continued their victories Friday in defeating the Southwestern Normals, 58 to 0.

Oklahoma's Big Score.

The adding machines were again brought into use in the Oklahoma-Southwest Normal game, the perambulating Sooners tabulating 148 points. Evidently Bennie Owens has developed a substitute for the hurling wonder, Geyer, to pass the pigskin to Field and Johnson.

Van Gent's team at Texas U. in their 19 to 0 count against Rice Institute proves that the former Tiger mentor has a real team. Rice last year had a strong team winning from Texan A. and M. which eleven in turn defeated the state University eleven 13 to 0.

The greatest surprise in Eastern gridiron games was the 7 to 0 defeat of Harvard by Tufts.
